

Celebrating Water

Mixed Media Acrylic Painting

Glass, Tile, Stone and Found Objects on oval support

As I follow the energy emerging in the long and winding road back to what I hope will be a sustained oil painting practice, I find myself enchanted with bits of broken glass and other “shiny things”.

I feel like a child with a treasure box.

The juxtaposition of shards of broken glass with smooth pellets and stones to form a thriving body of water is both surprising and delightful.

Inspired by Lake Huron’s ever-changing shores, Celebrating Water is about expressing the abundance, joy and erupting creative passion I am experiencing following a long period of gestation.

Trusting Water’s life force energy to soothe and cradle, nurture and sustain a diversity of ideas and expressions opens the way to new possibilities

Celebrating Water is about riding the waves of creative juices in flow with the beauty of life with gratitude.
